Beschreibung

As a first-tier supplier to our renowned business partner F. Hoffmann-La Roche Ltd. in Basel, we are currently looking for a motivated and dedicated Global CMO Clinical Packaging Site Manager for a temporary assignment of 12 months.

Tasks & Responsibilities

- You serve as the primary communication bridge between internal clinical stakeholders (such as study managers, clinical planning, and quality) and Roche's global network of external Contract Manufacturing Organizations (CMOs).
- You monitor external clinical drug labeling, packaging, and device assembly production to ensure everything runs according to plan, while staying flexible and reactive enough to rapidly liaise with CMOs, secure extra capacity, and scale up supply when unexpected events occur—such as sudden spikes in patient enrollment or extended quality deviations.
- You create, revise, and oversee Purchase Orders (POs), work orders, Requests for Proposal (RFPs), and Statements of Work (SOWs). Manage pre- and post-production orders in SAP, own the budgeting process for CMO variable costs, and review/approve CMO invoices.
- You partner with Procurement to negotiate supply agreements and select external packaging vendors, while leading ongoing Supplier Relationship Management (SRM) and tracking KPIs to guarantee predictable, on-time, and cost-effective delivery.
- You champion internal and external process improvements as the clinical portfolio evolves, represent the CMO function in Clinical Demand & Operations Planning (CD&OP), and help define supply strategies for non-standard product supply chains.

Must Haves

- You have 5+ years in the pharmaceutical industry with deep experience in contract manufacturing management or clinical drug manufacturing, backed by a strong understanding of GMP standards.
- You have advanced proficiency in SAP S/4HANA and P1S to handle order management, budgeting, and invoicing accurately.
- You have a BA/BS degree in a technical, business, or related field (Master's, PMP, APICS/SCOR, or Six Sigma/Lean certifications are strong pluses).
- You are fluent in English (basic German is beneficial), high cultural awareness, and schedule flexibility to collaborate seamlessly across

North American (SSF, Mississauga) and European (Switzerland) time zones.

Nice to Have

- You have direct experience in clinical drug manufacturing, clinical supply chains, or contract manufacturing management is strongly preferred (beyond general pharma or manufacturing experience).
- You speak fluent German

- You hold APICS and/or SCOR certifications.
