

Global Logistics Manager (m/f/d)

Temporär Jobregion: Basel Stellenprozenzte: 100%

Beschreibung

As a first-tier supplier to our renowned business partner F. Hoffmann-La Roche Ltd. in Basel and Kaiseraugst, we are currently looking for a motivated and dedicated Global Logistics Manager for a temporary assignment of 10 month.

The Global Supply Chain Operations Organization seamlessly connects markets to the global manufacturing network by centrally managing supply, inventory and replenishment planning for drug products. We orchestrate the value streams between sites and affiliates by balancing the demand and supply equations across markets, products, manufacturing assets and inventory points. We ensure right first time order fulfillment and delivery of drug products everywhere and anytime in the global network.

As a Global Logistics Manager you trade and deliver Drug Substance, Drug Product and Finished Products to a defined range of packaging sites, affiliates and 3rd party customers within a given geographical region. This includes the on-time and in-full supply of products and required documents worldwide, starting with the release and ending with arrival of products at the designated final destination. Moreover, you build and maintain strong relationships with suppliers, stakeholders and interfaces, lead discussions, root cause analysis, problem solving efforts and process improvements to ensure that reliable and compliant supply is secured and performance targets and customer requirements are met or exceeded, while minimizing cost and environmental impact.
